Friend Garrison.

At last I send the long promised work. I after reading you think it worthy circulation & will get any one to publish it, I will give half of the proceeds for the support of the Liberator. I had only one thousand copies issued & sold them at my lectures. I have had no advertising & it has never been brought into market from the fact of my being unable to do so. I have been so ill as to preclude my doing anything. It is stereotyped in good durable plate from which a large number could be struck. It can now be got out cheap & I should be happy to get some one to take hold of it. The promptness of the work & the many very favorable remarks tendered me by those capable of judging who have read it induce me to believe that a large number could be sold. At any rate I wish you to read & then review it in the Liberator for I know you will speak of it
